CITY WATER SAFE DESPITE ITS ODOR

CHANGE IN LIME RESPONSIBLE FOR STRAW-LIKE TASTE

IS MUCH BETTER TODAY

Many Improvements Underway At Pumping Station To Give Maryville Better and Cheaper Water

The city water of Maryville, although it has had a bad odor and straw-like taste the past week, is perfectly healthy for use, Dr. C. P. Fryer, county health officer said this morning following tests of the water in the College labratory. During the past week there has been considerable odor and taste to the city water but the supply uptown from the mains this morning showed the odor and taste to be practically gone. The ariated condition of the water, caused by air from the pumps going into the mains, was also absent this morning.

Because of the taste and odor of the city water the past week, many rumors have been afloat that it contained typhoid germs. But Dr. Fryer declares it is perfectly healthy and that there is not nearly the danger of typhus germs from the city water as there is from many wells of untested water in the county. The last epidemic of typhoid fever in this county came from that source of contaminated water, the doctor said.

A sample of the city water brought uptown by Mayor W. O. Garrett this afternoon showed it as clear as could be and entirely without odor or taste.

Lime Caused Odor

The source of the odor and straw-like taste in the city water was discovered Saturday morning by Mayor W. O. Garrett and J. W. Qualls, city engineer, when they were investigating the lime vat in the filter. The regular supply of hydrate lime that had been used in the filters ran out last Tuesday and an inferior grade of lime, the only available, had to be used until the new shipment arrived Saturday. It was very evident that the odor from the lime vat was the same as is found in the water from the mains uptown.

Rebuilding Clear Water Well

In addition to the lime trouble, there has been two other things to contend with this week, which have effected the water. Work has been in progress of tearing down twelve feet of the side walls of the clear water well, which had started to give way, and rebuilding it. The men are well along in this work of rebuilding the brick structure and plastering it both inside and out. Although the work on this has been a handicap to good water, it will prove a great benefit when finished. It will give an additional capacity to the clear water well of about 10,400 gallons, making its capacity now more than 450,000 gallons. It is from this well that the water is pumped directly up town.

Have Flushed Mains

Most all of the mains have been flushed and cleaned during the past week, which always disturbs the water supply for a time. But with the water in good condition at the pump station, the mains must be clean in order to get good water to the consumers uptown. A sample of the water was taken from the filter at the pump house Saturday after it had been flushed and it was found to be as clear and sweet as could be desired. This was the water going into the clear well to be pumped directly uptown.

New Clarification Process

A new process of clarification recently has been added to the filteration system which should prove of great value. The raw water is now drawn from the river into the reserve lakes then into a deep well in the filter. It is then pumped from there into the coagulating baths of lime and alum sulphate, then into the settling basin, where all sediment goes to the bottom. It is then drawn from the top of the basin into the filters, where the water is sent to the clear water well. The filters are washed every twenty-four hours if necessary and requires about 22,000 gallons of water to wash them.

The ariated condition of the water has been responsible for it looking cloudy when drawn from the faucets. On account of the work on the clear water well, the water has been carried so low that air from the pumps has been getting into the water. This air will immediately disappear from the water a few minutes after it has been drawn.

Fixing Old Pump

Some experiments and testing has been in progress in the pumping station at the plant. The plant now has two complete pumping units, one steam and one electricity that may be used in case of breakdown of either system. One steam pump that hasn't been used for more than three years, is being put in condition by Mr. Qualls, who says that the steam pumps here are as good pumps as are made. This pump is being put back in condition for about $500.

Improvement For Economy

In addition to the improvements being made now several plans are beginning to work to decrease operating costs. "Every time we can lift water by gravitation we save pumping expense," said Mr. Qualls. He and Mayor Garrett believe that within a short time Maryville will be getting better water and cheaper water than it has had for some time.

REPARATION POLICY TO BE KNOWN SOON

BALDWIN MAY ANNOUNCE ENGLAND'S STAND THURSDAY

MAY ARBITRATE MATTER

Premier Of Czecho-Slovakia Has Offered Services As Mediator, It Was Learned

London, July 9. — Premier Stanley Baldwin announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that it was possible that the government might make known its reparation policy Thursday.

London, July 9.—The Anglo-French crisis today reached a stage which seemed that arbitration was the only thing that might accomplish anything to break the deadlock on the reparation situation.

Dr. D. Benes, Czecho-Slovakia premier and leader of the Little Entente, it was learned, had offered his services as mediator.

Official opinion was that he would get a hearing, but it was considerably doubted that he would be able to accomplish anything.

The English cabinet was to meet today to hear Lord Curzon's report upon his latest conversation with the French, Belgian, and Italian ambassadors. It is known that he will not be able to report any progress and the situation is unchanged over the same period last week.

At the foreign office it was said that the German ambassador would call upon Lord Curzon this afternoon and explain his government's position upon sabotage, the newest question that has been added to Europe's vexing problems.

OVERFLOW CROWD HEARS EDDY PLAY

HUNDREDS OUTSIDE AT ORGAN DEDICATION LAST NIGHT.

PRAISES THE NEW ORGAN

Organist Also Praised Audience for Attendance on Hot Night—Was Here 12 Years Ago.

Playing to an audience that quickly filled the auditorium of the First Baptist Church a few minutes after the doors were open, and an overflow crowd of several hundred people on the lawn and in cars outside of the church, Clarence Eddy of Chicago, in his dedication concert of the new Hyslop memorial organ last night, proved himself worthy to be termed the "peer of American organists."

Choosing a varied program containing both light and heavy numbers that would show the possibilities of the new organ to the greatest extent, Mr. Eddy delighted his audience throughout the entire program. Especially pleasing to the audience were the "Russian Boat Song," "Melody," by General Charles J. Dawes, and the two numbers played by request, Overture, "William Tell," and "The Lost Chord." "The Processional March," the next to last number, also proved popular with the audience.

That Mr. Eddy is a master of the organ, and that his recital calls for nothing but words of praise, goes without saying. He played with unusual artistry, was complete master of the new instrument and under his hand showed its magnificent possibilities. He not only showed unusual manual dexterity and skill in pedalling but also a complete knowledge of the combinations of stops that brought out every delicate tone shade in softness or in volume when needed.

Mr. Eddy praised the new organ and said it was a splendid instrument and one of the best for its size he had ever played. Twelve years ago Mr. Eddy was in Maryville to dedicate the organ at the First Christian Church. He said this morning that the big attendance to the concert last night, despite the hot weather, spoke very highly of the appreciativeness of Maryville music lovers for good music. Two weeks ago yesterday he was in Kansas City and played the dedicatory concert for the organ at the new Linwood Boulevard Presbyterian Church. Mr. Eddy left this afternoon for his home in Chicago.

Mo. River Swallowing Rich Holt Co. Land

Rich farm land in Holt County close to Corning and Craig on the Missouri River is caving into the river at an alarming rate, L. R. Bagby, editor of the Craig Leader, who is in Maryville, declared today. It is cutting in rapidly opposite Forest City at the present time. Thousands of acres of land are going into the river, Bagby says. Forty-five years ago, he added, boats were landing at Forest City and the river now is from four to six miles from Forest City and is cutting back toward its old bed of forty years ago. Congressman C. L. Faust recently took a group of government officials over there to investigate the situation in an effort to get government aid. Mr. Bagby believes it would be better for the government to spend some money in retaining some of this rich farm land instead of spending so much in reclaiming the arid sand hills in Arizona and New Mexico.

INTERESTING WORK AT BLIND SCHOOL

NODAWAY COUNTY MAN LEARNS PIANO TUNING

OCCUPATIONS TAUGHT

Many Unusual and Unexpected Bequests Have Been Given To School In Last Few Years

St. Louis, Mo., July 9—One of the most important state institutions and the least announced is the Missouri School for the Blind, according to the president of the board, Martin J. Collins. Walter Williams of Clearmont, age 31, finished piano tuning at this school in May 1921, and is now tuning pianos from his home at near-by towns.

Nodaway county is now represented with one student.

The increased interest has led to unusual and unexpected bequests to the school. Miss Hanna Rickett of Maryville, Mo., bequeather $500.

The Missouri School for the Blind is located at Spring and Magnolia avenues, St. Louis, Mo. It is purely a school and not in any way an asylum or home. School opens the second Thursday in September and closes the second Thursday in June.

Pupils of good physical and mental capacity, between the ages of 6 and 20 years are admitted to the school. However, older persons are entered in the school. Board, lodging, and tuition are free; parents must pay for traveling expenses and buy necessary clothing. If unable to do this, money will be furnished by the County Court on application of parents of guardian.

The Braille system of reading and writing is taught, but in many cases the Spencerian system of writing is taught those partially blind.

Courses in kindergarten, grammar, and high school are offered and those graduating may enter any higher institution. The state will allow those students $30 a month for a reader. Many students have received their Bachelor of Arts degree and one, Miss Bertha McGuire, has received her Master of Arts degree from higher institutions of learning.

Domestic science, manual training, vocal and instrumental music are taught. Joseph Humber, who is now teaching cornet music in the school, is one of the graduates and is considered one of the best teachers of cornet in the state. Mr. Humber lost his eyesight and one hand by accident, when as a small child he was playing with a giant cracker that exploded in his hand.

There are nineteen faculty members of whom three are blind: Joseph Humber, cornet; Marie Adzit and Margaret Wade of the literary department.

Ernest Smith entered the school deaf, dumb and blind. He is now attending the School for the Deaf in Fulton, Mo., after spending several years under private instruction at Perkins Institute at Boston. He now has a vocabulary of 640 words. There is no rise or fall in his voice when speaking; it is a monotone. This is because he has not heard the words spoken and does not know about the variations of the voice.

The school is noted in athletic work. For five years it has won the national track meet of the National Athletic Association of Blind Schools 1913-14-15-16-22. After running the straight-away several times, guiding themselves with a wire, the students learn the course. The 75 yard dash has been made in 7.3 seconds and the standing broad jump 10 feet.

One would ask how the students find the proper class room. With a variation of wood and concrete floors with teh concrete part directly in front of the door, the students can easily find the proper room.

Mr. Collins said these students can do almost everything that is done by the seeing students and in many cases better, those in the domestic science department can cook anything and make any part of clothing that is made in the same department of the seeing students' school.

In many cases the students who enter the school partially blind are able to enter seeing schools after treatment here.

To St. Joseph.

The Rev. S. P. Allison will go to St. Joseph tomorrow to attend a committee meeting of the Presbytery for the purpose of reorganizing the Presbytery to conform to the organization at large.

BODY OF MISSING BALLOONIST FOUND

INDIANAPOLIS NAVAL ENTRY PERISHED IN LAKE ERIE.

LIEUT. NULL STILL LOST

Reported That His Body Was Found at Leamington, Ont., But Denied by Resident There.

Port Stanley, Ont., July 9.—The body of L. J. Roth, missing American naval balloonist, was found by the fishing boat, Onajag, today lashed to the basket wreckage of the balloon A-6698, fourteen miles south of here. The body was returned to this port to await instructions from Washington.

It was clad only in underwear with the naval life preserver about the waist. The body was identified by Captain Geo. Wilson of the Onajag, because of a ring with a red stone on the dead man's left hand and the initials L. J. R. on his underwear.

Washington, July 9—The Bureau of Aeronautics of the navy department ordered Lieutenant Strong to proceed from Cleveland, O., this afternoon to Port Stanley, to take charge of the body of Lieut. L. J. Roth, victim of the Indianapolis balloon race. Officials did not know where the body would be taken.

Port Stanley, Ont., July 9.—"It's all bunk," said Mrs. Jack Le Marsh, wife of the chief of police at Leamington, Ontario, told the International News Service this afternoon when asked about the report that the body of Lieut. T. C. Null, missing naval balloonist, had been found there.

"If a message has been sent from here stating that the body has been recovered here, it is a mistake," she said.

Port Stanley, Ontario, July 9—Mystery today still shrouded the fate of Lieut. T. B. Null, and Lieut. L. J. Roth, U. S. N., believed to be lost when their naval balloon, A-6698, was wrecked over Lake Erie and caught fire in an electrical storm.

Aircrafts from Detroit and Cleveland, aided by fishing and other crafts, resumed their search for the missing balloonists. While hopes were entertained in some quarters that the balloonists had donned their non-sinkable suits and were drifting in the lake, it is said there is no chance for them even if such was the case.

AN AGE OF WONDERS.

We are living in the age of wonders. Where ten years ago folks would scoff at a new idea and say, "Impossible," they now consider it seriously and admit, "Well, that might be done. Nothing is really impossible."

A boundless new field is opened by the wireless. The latest discovered use of wireless is its ability to make the deaf hear. Many people who have never heard any sound, have listened to music and the human voice for the first time in their lives, because the ear drums were effected by the finer vibrations of wireless when the ordinary tuning fork vibration made no impression.

In a most remarkable book, "A Dweller on Two Planets," dictated by Phylos, one who lived on this earth 12,000 years ago, through the medium of automatic writing, we learn that wireless was developed beyond our present conception by a civilization far superior to the generation of our day. In ancient Atlantis an instrument called the "naim" enabled one to see distant events as they transpired and to talk face to face with friends though thousands of miles separated their physical bodies.

"We are about to rediscover this remarkable wireless mirror. At the present time, Edouard Belin, distinguished French scientist, is working on an invention which he calls the telephoto device, that when perfected will equal the "naim," product of a forgotten civilization.

Nicola Tesla, American electrical wizard, is also experimenting along the same line and says that the means of seeing by wireless as well as hearing can and will be accomplished within a short time.

Imagine sitting in your home and seeing some world event take place as vividly as if you were actually present, even to the hearing of the things that transpire. Distance is no barrier. The device will work at a distance of five thousand miles as easily as five miles. The vibrations will pass through the earth's surface unbroken. Will wonders never cease?

Money becomes most important when you don't have it.

Hear 'em yell when horses crash!

Hear 'em roar at the mirthquake of laughter, the earthquake of thrills!

Even Willie Collier's whirlwind stage success didn't pack the wallop of the picture.

With Douglas MacLean and Madge Bellamy.

A RIOT! One of the GREAT BIG HITS of the year. That steeplechase! When you're not laughing you're yelling—yelling like ——! And the story! A panic when a youth who can't even stick on a rocking horse has to ride a four-legged thunderbolt because his girl believes he's a famous steeplechaser. It'll have you on your feet cheering all the way. The gasps of an earthquake! The yells of a mirthquake.

Trying to Find Best Variety of Oats

The agriculture department of the State Teachers College is conducting a series of experiments to determine the best adopted oats to the soil in Northwest Missouri. At present, there are five varieties planted in the experiment lots. W. W. Stanfield said that at present the field looks fine and he expected a heavy yield, although it will be somewhat cut by weather conditions.

The varieties of oats which are planted are as follows: Nebraska No. 21, Burt, Silver Mine, Texas Red and Fulghum. There is also two plots of Oderbrucker barley. These fields were planted on April 2 at the rate of two bushels of seed to the acre.

The oats and barley are all sown in duplicate and under two different kinds of soil preparation methods. In one the ground is double disced and drilled, the other is spring plowed and drilled.

There is also a separate experiment to determine the effect of fertilizers on oats and barley. The fertilizer used is acid phospate and at the rate of 200 lbs per acre. In this experiment the oats and barley are sown side by side, alternate plots being treated with the fertilizer, the other just as the ground was at the time of planting.

Mr. Stanfield in commenting on this experiment said that he did not expect very much difference in the yield because the ground on which the oats was planted raised 85 bushels of corn to the acre last year and so there would be hardly any advantage by fertilizing the soil as it is unusually rich at present.

In another section of the College farm projects, an interesting experiment is being conducted with crop rotation plans. The system as it is now established is on a field, which last year was planted entirely in soy beans. This year the field is divided into three sections. One-third of the field is sowed in oats, one-third in corn and one-third in barley and within the barley clover has been sown because it has been demonstrated that barley is a better nurse crop for clover than oats.

Next year some small grain will follow corn. In this small grain will be planted the clover seed. The rotation will then consist of corn, small grain and clover. This rotation is the most successful in building up soil and the productive power of the College field will be greatly increased.

In 1922, Mr. Stanfield said, the agriculture department of the College sold S. H. Kemp 130 bushels of Kanred seed wheat. This wheat was sown on three different farms and Mr. Kemp reports that a large yield is expected and that none of the wheat lodged. This shows the success in the College's attempt to produce Kanred wheat of a stiff straw variety which would not lodge badly. The old variety of Kanred wheat was very unsuccessful in the rich soil of Northwest Missouri.

U. S. WILL TRY TO INSURE STEADY COAL.

Washington, July 9—The administratio nwent definitely on record today as favoring government operation and control of the coal mines in event of a strike or other emergencies.

This was recommended to Congress by the United States coal commission in its report of investigation of the anthricite industry.

While the commission opposes government ownership it believes this drastic action should be taken if the operators and miners, now in session at Atlanta, Ga., fail to reach a wage agreement which will insure continuous production of coal after September 1.

Samuel Adams Discusses the Immigration Question

The proposal in bills before the last Congress was not to let in all immigrants, but a sufficient number of sound and able-bodied foreigners to do the hard manual labor needed to develop the nation's resources.

YES

1. There are enought acres in farms in the United States to feed a population right here in the United States of at least 200,000,000 even with our present wasteful methods of farming, and with intensive agriculture, we could feed 400,000,000 people in the United States.

2. We have been using wasteful methods in agriculture, mining the soil, and in many sections of the nation, farming has reached the stage where much more must be put into the soil in the way of fertilizers, through rotation of crops, etc., and more personal effort made to secure an adequate return on the investments. Most foreigners who go on farms are very careful, thrifty, painstaking and hard-working, and accustomed to intensive scientific farming, because they have practiced it in their home countries.

3. We have almost inexhaustible natural resources, with the exception of oil and one or two metalliferous ores and basic materials for manufacturing. It is an economic and a sound national policy to enlarge the home market, which has always been the best market both for manufactured products and for farm products, and the best way to increase this domestic market is to get a large population in this country, subject, of course, to their endorsement of American principles.

4. We have completed several transcontinental railroad lines and opened up one-half a continent, which won't be fully occupied for hundreds of years, at the present rate of increase of the native stock, which does not much more than reproduce itself.

5. The unhealthy concentration and congestion of foreign peoples in cities is due not to the clannishness of immigrants, but to discrimination in freight rates, failure to provide recreational facilities in rural sections, exploitation of immigrants in cities and on the land, and the unprofitableness of agriculture as a whole. The density of population in the United States is among the lowest in the world, and one of our essential national tasks is to secure an economic distribution of population in industries, while developing our natural resources to the utmost. This requires a vast number of unskilled workers.

6. Organized labor need not fear immigration for it is now so strong that it can promptly organize newly arrived immigrants. Some labor organizations, like the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, are largely composed of and officered by immigrants who have been here only a few years, or who came as children, like Sidney Hillman, the president of the union. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was also an immigrant coming here from England. William B. Wilson and James J. Davis, the only men who have served as Secretary of Labor, are both foreign-born.

7. Large employers of labor will move their factories abroad, if their raw material or labor is too expensive but newly arrived immigrants are willing to start at the bottom and work up, instead of trying to start at the top rung of the ladder.

8. If labor believes in the universal brotherhood of labor, it will form international labor unions and adjust wages to living costs in all countries.

9. Some at least of the alleged radicalism of immigrants is due to bad treatment received here and not to inherited traits. Immigrants well-paid and fairly treated are not a menace, but a great asset to the American nation.

NO

1. Farmers are in the most desperate straits since the Civil War. Two million of the farm population, according to the Department of Agriculture, left the farms last year. This means probably 650,000 or 700,000 wage-earners. While temporarily there is in a few places a shortage of labor, there is no shortage of labor in the nation, as a whole, and farmers who have been evicted from their farms through misfortune and the reduction in the prices they received for their products, should be given the first choice of jobs.

2. The labor forces of the nation are now fighting for their lives. The 'open shop' drive, which started shortly after the war, failed but the same interests which were back of this open shop drive are now urging letting down the immigration bars for the purpose of breaking labor standards.

3. American farmers are attempting to work out a system of profitable marketing of their crops. They have sustained enormous losses through reduction in prices they have received for their products since the war. It is much easier to organize farmers for commodity marketing, cooperative marketing, etc., if they speak the same language and are known to each other.

4. The best way labor here can help labor throughout the world is by maintaining a high standard for labor here, encouraging and helping foreign labor organizations to maintain a similar standard in their countries.

5. Foreign nations won't permit their best men to leave, as they need them at home for reconstruction. It would be a suicidal economic policy for them to permit their efficient workers to come to America, and those are the only kind we want.

6. America has not been a melting pot, as is often claimed. There are millions in the nation today who do not speak English although they have been here for years.

7. America cannot continue to be an asylum for the politically and economically oppressed of the world. We have enough political and economic oppression here now, and America's fundamental and immediate task is to make effective economic and industrial democracy. She has a sufficient population to carry out that experiment.

8. It is no kindness to foreign peoples to let them come here, thinking that they are going to improve their economic condition very materially. One and one-half million people unemployed is regarded as "normal" unemployment in this country.

9. America is trying out the experiment of reducing the number of working hours and substituting machinery, in factories and on farms, so as to afford more leisure. A large influx of immigration will interfere with this progress toward the use of machinery to save humans from protracted toil, and will make conditions harder for those now being displaced by machinery.

10. Freedom of exchange of goods between nations is the basis for the world's progress, plus international cooperation, not making each nation self-sustaining. We have no right to fill up our country over night. There are centuries ahead for America.

Appeal Delay Would be Abolished in State

Dr. O. C. Curl Receives Letter From Attorney General's Department Saying Justice Is Tricked

Dr. O. L. Curl, prosecuting attorney of Nodaway County, has received a letter from Ellison A. Poullon, chief clerk to Attorney-General Jesse W. Barrett, which discloses that the attorney general has undertaken a campaign to stamp out a practice in criminal procedure by which it has been possible for convicted men to postpone indefinitely the serving of their sentence.

"Due to several cases which have recently been discovered by this department, we have reason to believe that in many, if not all the counties in this state, there are persons now at large who have been convicted of felonies and should be in the penitentiary," Poullon writes.

"This situation is caused by persons convicted taking an appeal and in their failure to perfect it within a statutory period.

"I have unearthed a number of instances where men convicted several years ago have remained at large on appeal bonds, although not perfecting their appeal to the supreme court within the year allowed by law for that purpose. My further investigation has persuaded me that in some counties, criminal lawyers have made deliberate use of this trick."

Dr. Curl said that he was investigating the situation in Nodaway County, and if there were any such cases, the matter would be taken up immediately.

CAN SERVE TWO PURPOSES

Ornamental Trees Should Be Planted With a View to the Comfort of Feathered Friends.

Planting of ornamental trees can be done in such a manner that it will serve both ornamental purposes and the conservation of bird life, according to authorities in the department of city forestry at the New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse university.

Prof. Alan F. Arnold says that owners in planting trees, shrubs and vines might profitably take into consideration the idea of growing plants that will attract birds, inasmuch as the possibility exists of many of our native birds disappearing for lack of food and shelter, and that birds are always welcome in every out-of-door place.

The list of trees, shrubs and vines attractive to birds includes many of our most ornamental plants. There is no more valuable evergreen tree for ornamental purposes than the native red cedar; it also provides the best shelter and nesting sites for birds, while they obtain food from the berries and insects commonly found on the tree.

The native flowering dogwood and the Chinese crabapple are two particularly beautiful trees that are favorites with the birds. The gray-stemmed dogwood, honeysuckle, American elder and sheepberry are also serviceable to the birds, as well as ornamental. The Virginia creeper, one of the most popular vines, furnishes nesting sites and draws the attention of the birds away from grapes, apples and peaches.

"If one has a place where plants of a wilder sort can be introduced," said Professor Arnold, "and wishes to make a special point of attracting birds, there is a great variety of native plants that could not perhaps be used for more finished effects, but here would be just the thing."

ORNAMENTS FOR THE GARDEN

Essentials That Are of a Great Deal More Importance Than Are Generally Considered.

Many beautifully arranged gardens in which the color and performance of the plants are beyond reproach lack a certain sparkle, a definite point of interest, which may be supplied with a well-placed bit of ornament or a grouping of furniture. The ornament may be anything from a pair of warm-toned, gracefully shaped, yet inexpensive terra cotta jars, to a finely designed sundial or bird-bath. The furniture, depending upon the character of the garden, may be anything from a simple bench of stained oak to a smart and stylish array of painted-wood or French-iron chairs, settees and tables.

Of course, it is advisable in any instance to give the article some semblance of being used or, at least, usable. The urn might hold a plant suitable to its shape and color; the sundial should indicate the time with a fair degree of accuracy; the bird-bath should be one in which birds will be apt to bathe in their delightful, fluttering way, and the furniture should be comfortable and inviting. Yet things will always be essentially decorative. Their usefulness should be shared by an equal amount of beauty and appropriateness.

Shrubs.

For foundation planting, use barberry thunberg, coralberry, dogwoods, Morrow's honeysuckle, hydrangeas, Japanese quince, rhodotyphos, Regel's privet, snowberry, rugosa roses, spireas and wiegelas.

For borders use flowering almonds, caraganna, dogwoods, forsythia, upright honeysuckles, Philadelphus, flowering currants, viburnums.

For screens use Tartarian honeysuckles, buckthorns, elders, lilacs, Russian olive and evergreens.

For sterile soil use forsythias, elders, native trees, coralberry and matrimony vine.

For shady places, use barberry thunberg, dogwoods, viburnums and all yellow-foliaged shrubs.

Make your home look as though someone lived there.—Recommended by the Des Moines Garden club.

Georgia's "Dad's Nights."

"Get dad in," is the slogan of the Georgia Parent-Teacher associations, the members believing that the work needs the strength, weight and influence of father as well as the untiring inspiration of mother. One organization of Columbus, Ga., recently held the most successful and enthusiastic meeting of its history when it had a "Dad's Night," with decorations and refreshments, a spelling bee, with prizes and speeches by the fathers.

Made Proper Plans for Future.

Indianapolis, it is claimed, has the best downtown district of any city in the country. Indianapolis does not have the problem of widening and opening streets in the downtown section because the original planners of the city took care of that problem.

Progressive Work in Detroit.

Detroit has adopted a new safety measure on its municipal street cars by the installation of stop lights similar to those commonly used by automobiles.

The County Agent's Column

Chinch Bugs Break Out In New Place

W. M. Golding, Quitman, called the Farm Bureau office this morning saying the chinch bugs in his community were about to take things.

The County Agent went out to the Golding community this morning to direct the work of protecting the corn fields and other crops from the chinch bugs.

The only means of control at this time is by the use of dust barriers and chemical barriers. Dust barriers are made by plowing a couple of furrows with a lister across the path of the chinch bugs and continually dragging a log through these furrows to make a dust mulch and cover the bugs with dust as they enter teh furrow. Chemical barriers are made by using a crude creosote and applying a thin continuous line on the ground ahead of the bugs. A very good place to put the creosote is about three-fourths way up on the slope of the lister furrow on the side next the crop to be protected. The odor from the creosote is very disagreeable to the chinch bugs and they turn back on reaching this line. The line must be renewed every day. If creosote oil can not be obtained, one can take a gallon of good strong stock dip and mix it with eight or ten gallons of crude oil to obtain the same results.

The new method of gasing chinch bugs with calcium cyanide is said to be quite effective but the present price of calcium cyanide makes the method rather expensive.

Farming, like every other business, must cut down the overhead.

It is not a question of being able to afford a Fordson; it is a question of being able to continue farming on the old too-costly basis.

The farmer's problem is not all a sales problem; it is also a production problem. He must cut down the cost of production.

The Fordson does more work at a lower cost and in less time than the old hand methods.

Wilcox Wins From Burlington Junction

Score Was 15 To 13—All Available Pitchers Were Used And Were Hit Freely

The Wilcox baseball team defeated the Burlington Junction nine in a slugfest at Wilcox yesterday 15 to 13. All available pitchers were hit hard. Thorbin, the Wilcox hurler, struck out five men during his stay on the mound. He was soon relieved by Dixon but the collegian was off form and Watson was sent in. About 250 persons saw the game.

The batteries for Wilcox were: Thorbin, Dixon and Watson and Tobin; for Burlington Junction, Knuckles, Alderman and Monk and Hagey.

Jim Matter of Topeka, Kansas, a brother of G. Matter, who is in St. Francis hospital, arrived in Maryville yesterday. A granddaughter, Mrs. Clyde Hutton and children, Billy and Jane of Waterloo, Ia., are also here.

Greater Crops

CONDITIONS in the farming industry are the broad-gauged barometers of general business in the United States.

When crops are good prosperity is general.

It is obvious, therefore, that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) can turn its facilities and talents to no more important task than that of assisting the farmer to secure a greater crop return per acre.

The experience of the past ten or fifteen years has demonstrated that farms where automotive equipment is used are operated on a lower cost level and with a higher crop return than is the case where animal power is used.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is doing its utmost to promote the use of motorized machinery on the farm. Throughout ten middle western states this Company maintains a system of distribution which insures the farmer a dependable supply of gasoline, kerosene, lubricants and other products of petroleum at all times.

In this territory the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) maintains 3,780 bulk stations, out of which some 7,000 trucks and tank wagons carry its products to the farmer's home or if necessary to the tractor in the field.

This is one of the services which only a big organization could perform and it is a service worth while.

To emphasize the far reaching benefits of motorizing farm equipment, it is only necessary to state that farm property values in the United States have increased from forty billions of dollars in 1910 to eighty-five billions in 1920—an advance of 107% for a ten-year period.

The service performed by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been a factor of importance in making this increase possible.

Barnard Picnic Gets Music and Attractions

Leonard Band and Amusements, Including Dog and Pony Show, At Picnic Aug. 2, 3 and 4

(Barnard Bulletin)

The picnic committee has closed contracts for the music and amusements for the Barnard picnic and believe that some very attractive entertainment has been arranged for.

The Leonard Band, which accompanies the Leonard players in their tent show, has been employed for all three days and will be on the job from morning till night. Everybody knows the Leonard band makes more noise for its size than any other musical organization.

In addition to securing the Leonard band the committee has arranged for amusements galore. There will be a dog and pony show, besides the usual acts that are enjoyed every picnic. It is thought that the committee has secured the music and attractions at a very reasonable price and it is the plan of the committee to keep expenses within the probable receipts from the sale of concessions.

L. D. Goforth, secretary of the general committee has had some cards printed to send to concession men, in answer to their inquiries, the number being so great that he could not answer them by longhand. One interesting feature of the cards is a line to the effect that all consession men must keep their games within the law. This action was taken by the committee because of the fact the prosecuting attorney of Nodaway county, Dr. Curl, advised that all violations of the gambling laws would be prosecuted. It is also the desire of the committee to keep the picnic as clean as possible in every respect, hence the notice to comply with the law.

Wm. Leonard was in Barnard last week meeting with old friends and making arrangements for the coming picnic. Leonard will be in Maryville with his show beginning the week of July 16. He has a bigger show than he has ever carried, he says and carries a dog and pony show in addition to his dramatic performance.

Elmo Wins From New Market 4 to 2

The Elmo baseball team defeated the New Market aggregation at Elmo yesterday by a score of 4 to 2. It was one of the fastest games ever played on the Elmo diamond. LaMar, the Elmo hurler, allowed four hits and made eight strike-outs; Boyer, the New Market mound toiler, allowed eight hits and struck out four men.

The batteries for Elmo were LaMar and Huffstetter; for New Market, Boyer and Smith. A large crowd saw the game.

"The Hottentot" to be Shown at Empire

Latest Screen Hit, a Society Horse-racing Film To Be Here Tonight and Tomorrow Night

The latest big legitimate stage success to be adopted by the films "The Hottentot," Willie Collier's successful comedy that rocked the entire country for two years will be shown at the Empire Theatre tonight and tomorrow night.

Practically every stage success of the past decade which presents any pictorial value has been translated to the screen, but few have presented the wealth of material contained in Collier's big racing comedy.

After witnessing the stage play Mr. Ince immediately began negotiations to buy the film rights, which he finally did, paying $21,000. He recognized the tremendous possibilities of natural development in the play which he immediately chose for the first big comedy drama special on his current production schedule.

The correctness of the producer's lightning judgment is evident in the finished screen play which is more hilariously funny than the play and carries, in addition, all the wallops of outdoor action not possible with limited stage facilities. It took two production companies, weeks of time, tremendous expenditures and a good many broken bones to screen "The Hottentot," but the result proves that a picture version of a successful stage play can be even better than the original in the hands of a skilled showman.

In the selection of a cast the same care was used to avoid disappointing a public already sold on the merits of the stage play. No better successor could have been found for William Collier, who created the role of Sam Harington in the original play than Douglas MacLean. MacLean's comedy is finished; his love-making romantic; and when he finally rises to the occasion, overcomes his fear and rides in the frantic steeplechase he carries the sympathy of everyone with him.

Madge Bellamy, fired by the work of Frances Carson, who played opposite Collier as "Peggy Fairfax," presents one of the best characterizations of her career in "The Hottentot." She plays the part with an abandon and vivacity that would inspire anyone to deeds more daring than riding the firery brute which Sam conquers.

As Swift, the eccentric butler of the story, originally played by Donald Meeks, Raymond Hatton puts over some of the cleverest comedy of his versatile career and is good for a laugh every time he appears on the screen.

Late Telegraph News

Monroe City, Mo., July 9.—Farm bureau leaders and officers of 17 counties will meet here next Wednesday to study co-operative marketing plans. The meeting is one of five regional gatherings of its kind to be held this week in Missouri.

Walter Peteet, director of the co-operative marketing department of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will meet with the various county farm leaders here.

Moberly, Mo., July 9.—Governors in twenty states in the United States have endorsed a movement to establish a memorial park at Florida, Mo., in honor of Mark Twain, noted Missouri humorist, according to F. B. Lamson, secretary of the association which is pushing plans for the park.

Letters have been received from the chief executives of the many states answering invitations to a big picnic at Florida next Friday and expressing hopes that the movement will be a success.

Columbia, Mo., July 9.—Two hundred wheat fields in 58 counties of the state are being inspected by six men from the College of Agriculture of the state university for the Missouri Corn Growers' approved seed list. The investigators will search for evidence of disease of mixture of varieties.

Practically all of the fields of ripening wheat being inspected were grown from seed that passed a similar inspection last year and was listed by the Corn Growers' Association as approved seed.

Columbia, Mo., July 9.—Enrollment in the summer school at the University of Missouri totals 1148 for the summer course to date as compared with a total enrollment of 1224 last year at this time.

The students of collegiate rank show an increase over last year's enrollment, however, a comparison of the enrollment shows. The decrease this year is shown in the number of non-collegiate students sent by the United States government.

Kansas City, Mo., July 9.—A fire loss in Kansas City of $9.17 per capita for the year 1922, nearly twice the national one of $4.75, was the record made by this city, according to a letter received by the secretary of the department of civics of the Chamber of Commerce from James L. Madden of the insurance department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The statistics were taken from the 1922 report of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The per capita loss in the United States is just $4.03 higher than the percapita loss in Great Britain for 1922. And the figure is climbing still higher, while Great Britain's fire losses are diminishing.

As long as the great fire hazard continues here, it will be impossible for Kansas City to secure lower insurance rates, says Madden in his letter.

But great cheer—Kansas City is twenty-fourth from the head of the fire list; other cities are having their troubles, too.

Mexico, Mo., July 9—Hobson Waters of Mexico has a game rooster with somewhat effeminate ideas.

The rooster has been covering a setting of eggs for two weeks with the motherly care of a hen.

Now the question before the house is—Will he be the mother of the chicks when they are hatched, and if so, what will be their relation to the hen that laid the eggs?

Wm. R. Day Former U. S. Supreme Justice, Dies

Cleveland, O., July 9—Former Justice Wm. R. Day of the United States Supreme Court, died at his summer home on Mackina Island, Mich., at 5 o'clock this morning, according to word received by his son, former Judge Wm. L. Day, here.

Death was caused by chronic bronchitis. He was 74 years of age. Funeral services will be held at his former home in Canton, Ohio Thursday.

Insure Crops, Is Official Advice

Washington, July 9—General crop insurance is feasible and is urgently needed for the protection of American agriculture, in the opinion of officials of the department of agriculture who have been making a study of the subject. In view of the progress made by insurance in other fields, these officials say, it is hard to believe that adequate crop insurance facilities will long remain undeveloped.

The government's agricultural experts have been preparing data for the senate committee appointed in the last session of congress to investigate and report on the practicability of extending the scope of crop insurance. Hearings were held by the committee in April and further hearings will be held next December.

Crop insurance, the government's agricultural officials believe, should cover actual damage sustained but no theoretical losses resulting from failure to reap expected profits. What the farmer really needs is not an insurance contract which will guarantee him profits when nature fails him, they contend, but one guaranteeing protection against damage, so severe as to endanger his financial safety. Such protection, in their opinion, could be given at a reasonable cost.

Coal Body Advises U. S. Mine Control

Stricter Supervision Suggested In Report Made By Commission

Washington, July 9—The federal coal commission in a report made public yesterday contended the anthracite mining industry should continue in operation under private ownership but under official scrutiny and open publicity as to costs and prices, wage contracts between operators and mine workers should be made enforceable by penalties against infraction from either side, and power should be vested in the federal government to take over and operate the mines in any emergency resulting in cessation of operations. Concluding an eight months investigation of the industry, and summing up its findings in a 27,000 word report, the commission declared anthracite to be limited natural monopoly, one-third exhausted, and affected by a public interest which makes it a subject for especial governmental treatment.

Without interpreting the facts developed by the inquiry, the commission found that of each dollar paid for anthracite coal by consumers, half went to cost of coal at the mine; one-fourth for freight and a quarter to the retailers.

Operators and retailers, it was declared, divide 11 or 12 cents out of each dollar in profits while labor, cost per ton, $1.50 in 1913, has advanced to $4.12. The average worker gets "as income for a family of five," the report said, between $1,500 and $2,000 a year.

Kyne's Sea Hero Has First Accident

A dead whale or a half sunken derelict ship caused Capt. Matt Peasley of Los Angeles, known throughout the world as the hero of Peter B. Kyne's sea stories, his first accident in 37 years of sailing the high seas. His vessel, the Vigilant, struck an object off the Ventura coast just recently and the ship slid up on the edge, rolled almost over on her beam's end, and then slumped back into the water and off the object, causing a large leak to spring. A wireless call for help was made, which was answered by the steamer Cascade. The picture shows water being pumped out of the vessel and, above, a picture of Captain Peasley.

Bolckow Postmaster Was Short $4,056

Roy E. Wilson Was Arrested, Accused of Embezzlement—in Jail in St. Joseph.

A shortage of $4,056.85 in the postoffice funds at Bolckow has been discovered and Saturday Roy E. Wilson, the postmaster, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Duncan in St. Joseph on a warrant charging embezzlement. He waived preliminary hearing, and his case was certified to the September term of court. He was committed to the county jail in default of $5,000 bond.

When seen by a reporter Wilson admitted the defalcations. He declined to state at what use he had put the money. However, F. D. Flora, postoffice inspector in the St. Joseph division, who audited Wilson's books and filed the information, said he believed part of the money had been used by Wilson stocking his 160 acre farm near Bolekow, and some in gambling. Wilson denies that any of the money went in gambling.

"I can't tell you what I used the money for," Wilson said. "But none of it went in gambling. It was for good causes."

The defalcations cover a period from January to the present time, according to Wilson's own admission. According to Inspector Flora, a large part of the money taken was obtained from war savings stamps which were cashed at the Bolekow office.

Audit Last Saturday.

"When stamps were turned in for collection Wilson sent them to the Kansas City offiee, giving the owner of the stamps a receipt," Flora said. "The money was then sent to Wilson, but he managed to stand the owner off with excuses, at the same time appropriating the money to his own uses. It was when people began to complain of the delay that we became suspicious."

Wilson's books were audited last Saturday by Inspector Flora. He returned to St. Joseph Sunday, and filed reports of his finding with the chief inspector, who instructed him to proceed against Wilson, and to appoint Miss Dora Hartley acting postmaster.

L. C. Wilson, deputy United States marshal, was in Bolckow Friday with the warrant for Wilson's arrest and took him to St. Joseph Saturday morning. The men are second cousins. Wilson was then arraigned before United States Commissioner Duncan. Miss Bertha Goforth, who was a clerk in the postoffice under Wilson, resigned when she discovered what had been taking place, Flora said.

Accused Man Talks

According to Flora, Wilson kept his postal accounts in good order up to March 31, when he made his quarterly report. It was after that date that defalcations other than those on war saving stamps were made. He converted stamp and money order receipts to his own use after that, Flora says.

Wilson locked up in a cell with other federal prisoners at the county jail, did not seem dejected by his imprisonment.

He made no denial of the charges preferred against him.

"The money was taken since the first of the year," Wilson said. "I expected to be able to make up the shortage before I went out of office next month, but I was discovered too soon. Of course I will make up everything that has been taken before the case comes to trial. Even then, they may send me to Leavenworth."

Named Four Years Ago

Wilson is thirty years old, and married. He has lived in the vicinity of Bolckow all his life. His parents are dead. He was appointed postmaster four years ago by President Wilson, and his term would have expired Aug. 12. No one had been appointed to succeed him, however, and it is likely that he would have held over for several months. Bolckow is a postoffice of the third class, and the salary is $1,300 a year, with allowances for a clerk and rental.

No one who had presented savings stamps to Wilson for collection will lose their money Inspector Flora said. The National Surety Company of New York was on Wilson's bond for $5,000, and in the event that he does not make the shortage good, the government will collect from the bonding company.

Week-End Guests.

Mrs. Hattie Hogue and daughter, Myrtle, spent the week-end with Mrs. Hogue's sister, Mrs. J. H. Carmichael and Mr. Carmichael at their home near Pickering.
